DAILY CONSTITUTION.

CARPENTER.

He Defends the Gagging of the Press.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Senator Carpenter publishes a long letter here this morning in regard to the so-called Carpenter gag-law, and says an accurate statement in regard to this matter will satisfy every journalist who reports truth, and will diminish the force of the interpretation uttered by those of the profession who do not. The law of libel is no more unfavorable to the press than the statute against larceny is unfriendly to the people. One perplexes thieves, and the other liars; but neither is a terror to honest men, and this bill is no more injurious to publishers than every law must be which looks to an impartial administration of justice. He knows no reason why the District of Columbia should be excepted from the operation of the general law, or why a merchant should object to the courts of that District, while making no objection to the Federal courts in other Territories and States. He says it is a fundamental principle in the jurisprudence of all enlightened countries that every trial ought to take place as near as possible to the place where the cause of action arose, not only for the convenience of witnesses, but to secure a jury of the vicinage in causes arising out of commercial transactions and in other more transitory persons. This principle cannot always be observed in many of the Western States, where important branches of business are conducted by resident agents. For instance, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company might lease and operate a railroad in Wisconsin or in Idaho, a party injured upon such road ought to have suit to try the liability of such company where the wrong was committed and where witnesses reside. The party ought not to be compelled to go to Pennsylvania to recover damages for an injury received in Idaho.

THE SYRACUSE DISASTER.

Nineteen Persons Killed.

SYRACUSE, June 24.—The number of persons killed by the falling of the church floor last night is nineteen, mostly young ladies and children. The accident was caused by the giving way of the joist that supported the floor joist, which ran from both sides of the room to a cross stringer, the middle of which was supported by iron rods from the roof. The stringer gave way, pulling the ceiling and roof down upon the people and precipitating them into a room below. The work of recovery was exceedingly slow, as it had to be done in the dark, and it was feared every moment that the walls would fall in.

France.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Bonapartists are establishing newspaper organs and distributing political documents and petitions urging the restoration of the Empire.

It is probable that the Assembly will successively reject all the constitutional bills.

The Republicans manifest joy over the prospect, believing that dissolution will be the inevitable result.

The Conservatives favor either the postponement of the bills until winter if none of them can be passed now, or the intervention of President MacMahon by means of a message, holding the Assembly responsible for a failure to recognize the powers of the executive.

Vigorous efforts have been made by the Bonapartists to influence public opinion and turn it to their own account, which action causes much uneasiness. The party is rganizing committees in every department.

The Queen's Visit.

LONDON, June 24.—Railroad officials have orders to arrange for Victoria's visit. She will arrive in Russia on the 14th of September.

Italian Guarantees.

ROME, June 24.—Several arrested for participation in the Papal demonstration on Sunday and sentenced to short imprisonment.

OPIUM ANTIDOTE

Is a perfect and painless cure for

The Habitual use of Opium, in any of its forms, whether as

MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, ELIXIR, or GUM OPIUM

It Positively Produces a Permanent Cure.

IT is strange yet true, that as a rule it is the brightest intellects, the best members of society become addicted to this diseased appetite. A habit which makes them slaves, beclouds their minds, ruins their dispositions, and gives them in their more natural moments a hatred of self as well as a feeling that everybody despises them—to such an extent that society has no charms. But thanks to the Giver of all good, this morbid, terrible habit, and degraded condition, as well as all of the desire and feeling for opiates in any form is soon removed by this remarkable antidote, entirely so, and the weakened body and mind are invigorated, given renewed health until love and hope take the place of despondency and doubt. Though you may not be afflicted with the habit of using MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, or other forms of OPIUM, some friend may be, and you know it not, therefore let me ask you, in the name of suffering humanity to pass this on. By so doing you may reap the reward of those who do good. DELAY NOT.

Military Matters.

Executive Orders were yesterday issued for the election of officers of the following named companies: Cambridge Troup Artillery; Troup artillery, Athens; Oglethorpe Cavalry, at Winterville, Clarke county; and a cavalry company at Ward's Station, Randolph county.

The following were commissioned:

Atlanta Artillery—Captain, Wilbur F. Johnson; 1st Lieutenants, Wm. A. Hemphill, W. W. Compton; 2d Lieutenants, T. B. Camp, Doyle D. Saulter.

Mountain City Guards (Rome)—Captain, N. J. Bayard; 1st Lieutenant H. M. Smith; 2d Lieutenants, R. B. Wright, J. Dinkle.

Oconee Rifles (Watkinsville)—Captain, John W. Hodges; 1st Lieutenant, Reid B. Harris; 2d Lieutenants, Henry C. Durham, Alexander W. Ashford.

Butler Light Infantry (colored) (Quitman)—Captain, Frank Fluker; 1st Lieutenant, Primus Davis; 2d Lieutenants, Monroe Spradley, Anthony Lewis.

A. D. Stevens was recently promoted from 1st Lieutenant of the Ft. Gaines Guards to the adjutancy of the Pataula Battalion.

An infantry company is ready for organization at Fairburn, Campbell county.

Still Another Tax Defaulter.

The Comptroller General yesterday notified the Governor that Evan Parker, Tax Collector of Johnson county, appeared in default upon the books of his office in the sum of $1,570 95, as follows:

Amount of tax for 1871	$1,934 16
Credited by payments, etc	1,771 02
Amount unpaid	163 14
Amount of tax for 1872	1,971 37
Credited by payments, etc	1,427 49
Amount unpaid	543 88
Amount of tax for 1873	$3,414 18
Credits by payments, etc	1,580 32
Amount unpaid	863 86

The Governor at once vacated his commission, and the Ordinary will appoint some qualified person to act as Tax Collector until an election can be had, after twenty days' notice. Legal proceedings will be promptly instituted to recover the defalcations. The Comptroller has already issued executions.

An aggravating feature of the case is, that the sureties of Parker are those two worthy citizens, Lott and Henry Walker, aged respectively seventy-two and seventy-four years. Much sympathy is expressed for them in the neighborhood. It is a hard case of "misplaced confidence."

An Athens correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle mentions some names that have been suggested in connection with the vacancy that will occur if Dr. Lipscomb can not be induced to recall his resignation of the Chancellorship of the University. The suggested names are: Col. Charles C. Jones, a lawyer now resident in New York, and the author of several historical books; Col. W. P. Johnston, a son of Gen. Albert Sydney Johnston, and a Professor of History in the Washington and Lee University; Col. Robert Tyler, the editor of the Montgomery News, and a son of ex-President John Tyler; and Col. Isaac Hayne, of Charleston, an eminent lawyer, and a member of the family immortalized by the rival of Webster.

The late session of Congress was one of the longest in the history of the country; only two exceeded it in that respect, but it left a vast amount of business undisposed of. The country, perhaps, should be grateful for this very inaction. About 500 bills will become laws, while 4,000 were left to slumber in the committees until next winter. Most of them will know no waking. Many important bills failed to pass both houses—such as the Civil Rights bill, the bills to admit Colorado and New Mexico, the new reciprocity treaty with Canada, the Tariff bill, the bill to abolish polygamy in Utah, and the recognition of Cuba.

The St Louis Times says that Mr. Joseph Brooks, of Arkansas fame, has returned to his old home in St. Louis greatly disgusted with the state of things in Arkansas. Mr. B.'s career in St. Louis showed in 1872 as a commercial agent, and soon afterwards he became interested in a street-sprinkling contract. Immediately after the close of the war he engaged in cotton and land speculations at Helena, Arkansas. His farewell public role as a revolutionary politician does not need explanation or comment. Good-bye, Joe—a long, and we hope a last, farewell.

For the last two months and a half the Governor has announced no rewards until yesterday, when $250 was offered for the arrest and delivery to the Sheriff of Dooly county of Marshall Gregory, charged with the "foul, brutal, cowardly and unprovoked murder" of W. Y. Thompson. The mother of the murdered man has also published a reward of the same amount.

Gregory is about twenty-three years of age, five feet seven or eight inches high, spare built, weighs 140 pounds, fair complexion, light hair and blue eyes—left eye blemished—"cat's eye," almost blind, end of right thumb off.

STATE SUPREME COURT

June 24, 1874.

HON. HIRAM WARNER, CHIEF JUSTICE,

HONS. H. K. MCCAY AND R. P. TRIPPE

ASSOCIATE JUDGES.

John T. Wingfield, administrator, vs. Belle Virgin et al. Equity, from Mitchell.

WARNER, C. J.

In November, 1861, John B. Weems, who had intermarried with Elizabeth Wingfield, for the purpose of protecting his wife's equity in her share of her deceased father's estate, jointly with her, executed a deed of trust conveying to B. B. Wingfield, her brother, all the property to which she was entitled as a distributee of her father's estate, upon certain declared trusts expressed in said deed, one of which was that said trustee was to hold the said property for the sole and separate use of his said wife and children born, and to be born, the income of all property to be applied to the support, maintenance and education and use of the family, and not to be subject to the debts of said Weems, and at the death of himself and wife, or the survivor of them, the corpus of the property, with its profits, to be divided amongst their children. This deed was recorded within three months after its execution. A part of the property assigned to Mrs. Weems as a part of her father's estate, and conveyed to the trustee, was a house and lot in the town of Washington, which is now the subject matter of controversy. Wingfield, the trustee, never took possession of the house and lot, but it was taken possession of by Weems, managed and controlled by him, and whilst in the possession thereof, and occupied as a home for his wife and children, did, on the 6th day of October, 1863, sell and convey the said house and lot to one Nicholas Wylie for the sum of $17,500 00, signing the deed of conveyance as trustee for his wife, and the said Wylie went into the possession of the same under said purchase, and continued in the possession thereof up to the time of his death, and by his legal representative since his death. On the 14th day of November, 1864, Wingfield, the trustee named in the original deed of trust, and Mrs. Weems executed another deed to Wylie, conveying the premises to him for the consideration of $17,500 00, as expressed in the deed, but in fact no money was paid when the last deed was executed. The complainants, the children of Weems and wife, all being minors, filed their bill against the defendants to have the trust re-established, which, they allege, has been destroyed, the aforesaid deeds canceled, and an account taken of the rents and profits of the property, a new trustee appointed, and the trust executed in conformity with the terms of the original trust deed. Wylie's legal representative, one of the defendants, claimed a title to the the house and lot by prescription under the statute. On the trial of the case, the jury under the charge of the Court, found a verdict for the complainants. A motion was made for a new trial, which was overruled and the defendant excapted. Did Wylie in his life time acquire a good prescriptive title to the house and lot as against the complainants? What constitutes a title by prescription? Title by prescription, is the right which a possessor acquires to property, by reason of the continuance of his possession for a period fixed by the law. Possession, to be the foundation of a prescription, must be in the right of the possessor, and not of another, must not have originated in fraud, must be public, continuous, exclusive, uninterrupted and peaceable, and be accompanied by a claim of right. Adverse possession of lands under written evidence of title for seven years, shall give good title by prescription. But if such written title be forged or fraudulent, and notice thereof be brought home to the claimant before, or at the time of the commencement of his possession, no prescription can be based thereon. New Code 2678, 2679, 2683. There is no dispute as to the fact that Wylie was in possession of the house and lot for more than seven years under the first deed executed by Weems as trustee for his wife, before the filing of complainants' bill, and it must be admitted, from the evidence in the record, that he went into the possession of the property under written evidence of title, and held that possession under a claim of right, having paid a fair valuable consideration for it. There is no evidence of any actual fraud in the procurement of the deed for the house and lot by Wylie from Weems, which is necessary to be proved, in order to defeat his prescriptive right of possession; in other words, there is no evidence that his possession under that written evidence of title originated in fraud, but on the contrary, the purchase of the property appears to have been made in good faith, and for an adequate valuable consideration, paid at the time he went into the possession of the property under written evidence of title. But it is said that the complainants are minors, and that the statute did not run against them in favor of his prescriptive title. It will be noticed that the legal title to the property was in Wingfield, the trustee, by the original trust deed, and not in the complainants, and cannot vest in them until the death of Weems, their father. The Code declares that no prescription works against the rights of a minor during infancy. New Code, 3686. By the Act of 1817 (Cobb's Digest, 567) it is declared that the statute of limitation, when it has commenced running, shall not so operate as to defeat the interest acquired by infants after its commencement. This Court, in construing the Act of 1817 in Pendergrast vs. Foley (8th Geo. Rep., 1) held that the interest of infants, as contemplated by that Act, must be such an interest as would enable them to maintain a suit in their own names for the property, as where the legal title to lands is cast upon the infant heirs of the deceased ancestor. The Court also held in that case, that when the legal title to property was in an executor, administrator, or trustee, for an infant, who neglects to sue within the time prescribed by law, the statute of limitations shall bind the infant, and such infant is not to have been the uniform ruling of this Court, from the words "interest acquired by infants" in the Act of 1817 was properly construed by this Court to mean a legal title in them, the words "rights of a minor during infancy," as mentioned in the Code, should receive the same construction. In Ladd & Wilson vs. Jackson (43d Geo. Rep., 388) this Court held that the statute did not run against the minor children in that case, because the title to the land was vested in them. The distinction is this: When the legal title to the property is vested in a trustee who carries for it and fails to do so within the time prescribed by law, said his right of action is barred, the infant cestuis que trusts, who have only an equitable interest in the property, will be also barred, but when the legal title to the property is vested in the infants, or cast upon them by operation of [illegible] the statute does not run against them during their infancy. In the case before us the complainants to whom the property in controversy never was in the complainants and could not be until the death of Weems in 1868, at which time, Wylie's title by prescription was good as against Wingfield, the trustee who had the legal title to the property, and he being barred from enforcing the possession of it, the complainants, his infants [illegible] are also barred. It is insisted that the taking of the second deed by Wylie from Wingfield, the trustee, on the 14th of November, 1864, to the property, will defeat his prescriptive right of possession under his first deed, because the second deed was a fraud on the rights of the complainants. Although the obtaining the second deed may have been a fraud as to prevent him from acquiring any rights under it, still it cannot have retroactive operation, so as to defeat his prescriptive title acquired under his first deed. Wylie's prescriptive title did not originate under the second deed, but originated under his first deed, and his possession commenced under it, and not under the second deed; besides, it does not appear from the evidence that there was any fraud, actual or constructive, in the execution of the second deed. He had honestly bought the property, and paid a fair consideration for it, and doubtless believed he had a good title from Weems, but when he ascertained the contrary, it was but natural that he should desire to procure a better title from the trustee, and the parties knowing that he had paid his money for it, including Mrs. Weems, she united with the trustee in making him another deed, expressing therein the consideration which he had paid when the first deed was executed, that is all of it in relation to the point of fraud in the transaction. But assuming that there was actual moral fraud on the part of Wylie, in procuring the second deed and the trustee to commit a breach of trust, as the complainants contend there was, still his prescriptive title under which he claims the possession of the property, did not originate under that deed. In order to defeat Wylie's prescriptive title for fraud, his written evidence of title, under which he went into the possession of the property, must be shown to have been fraudulent within his own knowledge, or notice thereof brought home to him, before, or at the time of the commencement of his possession. There being no evidence in the record of any actual fraud on the part of Wylie, when he purchased the property from Weems and took his deed as trustee for his wife therefor, and went into the possession of it under a claim of right as his own property, and continued in possession for more than seven years, he acquired a good prescriptive title to the property under the statute as against the trustee of the complainants, who had the legal title to it, and the trustee being barred of his right to recover it, the complainants, his cestui que trusts, were also barred; they not having any legal title to the property vested in them, which would prevent the running of the statute against them as infants, according to the uniform rulings of this Court heretofore made. To except minors during infancy from the operations of the statute, the legal title to the property must be in them.

Let the judgment of the Court below be reversed.

Henry Clews & Co. vs. the Brunswick & Albany R. R. Co. Equity, from Glynn.

WARNER, C. J.

A creditors bill was filed against the Brunswick & Albany R. R. Co., and a final decree was had in the cause adjudicating the rights of the respective parties before the Court, the dignity and priority of their claims as creditors of the company, which directed the road of the company to be sold, and which was sold under said decree. Henry Clews & Co., were parties to that bill, presented their claims against the company which were adjudicated by that decree and a general judgment rendered in their favor. After the sale of the road, but before the distribution of the money arising from the sale thereof, Clews & Co. petitioned the Court to amend the original bill under which the road was sold, so as to allow them to set up as a preferred claim certain coupons which they alleged were due them for interest on certain described first mortgage bonds on the road which they held as collateral security for the payment of the claim for which they had obtained the aforesaid general judgment. The Court refused the application to amend the original bill after the decree in the cause had been rendered as before stated, and the petitioners excepted. The effect of allowing the amendment to the original bill, would have been to have opened and set aside the decree of the Court, at least, so far as the petitioners claim was concerned which had been adjudicated by that decree. They were parties to the original bill, and if they had the claim which they now seek to set up when that original bill was pending, it was their duty to have set it up then, and to have had the judgment of the Court upon it. They state no good reason why they did not do so. They do not allege that they were prevented from setting up their claim for the interest due on the bond coupons, by fraud, accident, or mistake, or by the act of the adverse party, unmixed with negligence on their part. They had their day in Court as to all the claims they held against the company, which they thought proper to present for the consideration of the Court, when the decree was rendered. They do not occupy the position of creditors, who were not parties to a creditors bill, and had no notice of the proceedings, or opportunity to have been heard in relation to their claims against the company. There was no error in the Court below in refusing to allow the amendment to the original bill on the statement of facts disclosed by the record.

Let the judgment of the Court below be affirmed.

Lewis Scofield vs. Wm. McNaught, administrator. Equity, from Fulton.

WARNER, C. J.

This was a bill filed by Lewis Scofield against Wm. McNaught, administrator of L. Windsor Smith, to the April term 1870, of Fulton Superior Court.

The bill sets up that on the 4th day of April, 1861, N. E. Gardner bought of said Smith, then in life, a certain parcel of land in said county, describing the same, under the following agreement in writing, a copy of which was attached as an exhibit to the bill, to-wit:

"This agreement made in Atlanta, Georgia, this 4th day of April, 1861, between L. Windsor Smith and N. E. Gardner, witnesseth, that, in consideration of the purchase money and rents hereinafter mentioned, the said Smith covenants with the said Gardner, his heirs and assigns, as soon as the said purchase money and rents shall be fully paid, to convey to him or them by a good warranty deed, the title to all that parcel of land in the city of Atlanta, lot one, block nine, of the Mitchell tract, so called, and bounded as follows: Commencing on the northwesterly line of Whitehall street, fifty-two feet from Hunter street, and running back parallel with that street to the back line of the said lot two hundred and ten feet more or less, thence parallel with Whitehall street, southwesterly fifty-three feet, thence parallel with Hunter street, towards Whitehall street, one hundred and twenty-six feet, thence parallel with Whitehall street southwesterly one foot, thence parallel with Hunter street eighty-four feet, more or less, to Whitehall street, and thence fifty-four feet to the place of beginning, together with all the rights, privileges and appurtenances, rents hereafter accruing, and all erection and improvements thereon thereto belonging. And in consideration of the above, the said Gardner agrees to pay to the said Smith, his heirs or assigns, as purchase money for the said premises, seven thousand dollars on the 4th day of January next, and he also agrees to pay to the said Smith, his heirs or assigns as his tenant of the said premises, until the said purchase money, without interest, and such rents shall be fully paid, rents at the rate of seven hundred dollars a year, in installments of three hundred and fifty dollars at the end of each six months, until some part of the said purchase money shall be paid, and thereafter his rents shall bear the same ratio to the amount of the purchase money unpaid, as seven hundred bears to seven thousand. But the said Smith shall not be bound to accept any payment after the first, less than five hundred dollars, and if proffered at any time after 4th day of January next, he shall [illegible] said Gardner six weeks notice of the same proffered payment, and thereafter his rents or assigns shall pay all taxes and other legal charges on the said premises, and maintain the same in all accidents thereof or damages from whatever cause. And the said Gardner shall not [illegible] said premises, without the consent of the said Smith, his heirs or assigns shall direct, then to be forwarded elsewhere, in which case the expenses of such forwarding shall be paid by the said Smith. [illegible]

L. WINDSOR SMITH, [SEAL.]
N. E. GARDNER, [SEAL.]

which judgment of the Court the complainant excepted.

The complainant also excepted to the charge of the Court as above set forth.

The first question to be considered in this case is, whether the contract made by Smith and Gardner was usurious on its face. It is insisted that it was not usurious, because it was not for the loan of money or for the forbearance to collect a debt. The Act of the General Assembly of 1845, which was the law of this State defining usury, when the contract in question was made, declared (What is still the law) that all notes, bonds, contracts, tracts, bonds, notes and assurances whatsoever, made after the passage of this Act by or with an interpleaded bank, or any person or persons, whether natural or artificial, for the payment of any principal on money, goods, wares or merchandize, or other commodities whatsoever, to be lent, covenanted to be performed upon, or for any usury, whereupon or whereby there shall be reserved or taken above the rate of seven per centum per annum, shall be void and of no effect, except so far as to authorize the recovery of the principal thereon, and no more." Cobb's Dig., 393. Gardner purchased the property of Smith, and agreed to pay him therefor the sum of $7,000 00 on the 4th day of February, 1869, and also agreed to pay said Smith as his tenant until the said purchase money should be paid, rent at the rate of $700 a year in installments, and the rent was to bear the same ratio to the purchase money unpaid, as seven hundred bears to seven thousand, and said Gardner was to pay all taxes, and other legal charges on the premises purchased by him of Smith, and the loss of all accidents thereto, or damages from whatever cause. Gardner as the purchaser of the property, was to run all risk and damage to the property as the purchaser thereof, and pay Smith ten per cent. on the amount of the purchase price of the property under the name of rent, and that is the sum and substance of the contract between the parties in relation to the time given by Smith, to Gardner, within which, the payment of the purchase price of the property was to be made. Although Gardner is called the tenant of Smith, he was not his tenant in contemplation of the law, and calling him tenant did not make him so. When a party enters upon land under a contract of purchase, the relation of landlord and tenant does not exist.—Brown vs. Persons, 44th Georgia Reports, 60. Gardner had the use of the purchase money, which he agreed to pay Smith for the property on the 4th day of January, 1862, until he paid it, and agreed to pay for the use thereof ten per cent. under the name of rent, and according to the provisions of the Act of 1845, before cited, it was usury apparent on the face of the contract, that is to say, such was its legal effect. Courts will not allow parties to evade the statute against usury, either directly or indirectly, by resorting to any trick or artifice for that purpose, especially when the intention is so patent on the face of the transaction, as in this case. The relation of landlord and tenant did not exist between the parties, and Gardner did not owe Smith any rent as such. The ten per cent. on the amount of the purchase money which Gardner agreed to pay Smith for the property, was for the use of the money due thereafter until paid, and calling it rent, did not alter the legal effect of the transaction so far as the question of usury is concerned. In our judgment, the contract was usurious on its face, and the Court erred in charging the jury to the contrary thereof. But it is insisted that, notwithstanding the contract between Garder and Smith may have been usurious, still, the complainant, Scofield, has no equity which will entitle him to any relief against the usury in that contract, for the reason that he has been paid by Gardner in the transfer of the property to him to discharge that contract, including the usury. If the value of the property transferred by Garder to Scofield, under the contract between them, was of sufficient value at that time in good money, to have covered the amount then due for it including the usury, then Scofield has no equity which would entitle him to be relieved against the usury; for if Gardner paid him in property at a fair valuation in good money at the time, to pay off the debt due for it, including the usury, then Scofield has not been hurt. But if the property which Gardner transferred to Scofield for the purpose of paying off that debt, was valued upon a Confederate basis, then he has been hurt just to the extent of the difference of the value of the property in good money, and its value in Confederate money at the time the contract was made between them, and that was a question which should have been submitted to the jury under a proper charge of the Court. The charge of the Court that the contract between Smith and Gardner was not usurious, necessarily excluded from the consideration of the jury the other facts in the case upon which the complainant's equity was based to be relieved from the payment of the usury.

Let the judgment of the Court below be reversed.

D. F. & W. R. Hammond, B. H. Hill & Son, for plaintiff in error.

Robert Baugh, L. E. Bleckley, for defendant.

McCay concurred, but furnished no written opinion.

TRIPPE, J., dissenting.

Though there be usury in the contract between Smith and Gardner, yet, when Scofield purchased from Gardner, an allowance was reserved by him out of the price he was to pay for the lot for the purpose of discharging what Gardner owed his vendor, and he agreed so to do. With this agreement existing, and the amount reserved being in the hands of Scofield, Gardner permitted the judgment to go against him. In my opinion, Scofield cannot now set up the usury in the original contract with Smith, and thus leave a large portion of the judgment against Gardner to be paid by him. The purchaser from Gardner ought not thus to be allowed to avail himself of a statute not intended for his benefit, and to obtain an interest in land which his vendor never agreed or intended to transfer to him. Post vs. Dort and the Bank of Utica, 8 Paige Ch. Rep. 639. Given vs. Kemp, 13 Mass., 574. Morris vs. Floyd 5 Barb. 130. These decisions fully sustain the foregoing position, and, besides, it is consistent with reason, justice and principle.

If there be any special equitable facts connected with Scofield's purchase from Gardner, which would entitle him to such a right, they should have been charged in the bill and proved at the trial. The mere statement in the bill that Gardner told complainant that his creditors would take Confederate money, is not sufficient. He does not state that he was thereby induced to give more than he otherwise would have promised, or that the price and the land was increased on account of he being estimated in that currency, nor how he was, or could have been, in any way injured by such a statement on the part of Gardner, nor does he charge that the statement was false, or fraudulent, or that he ever offered to pay the debt in Confederate money or that he was notified it would not be received.

On the trial there was indeed no testimony and none offered that such a representation had ever been made by Gardner, nor does the answer of the administrator aid complainant. Under the bill and the evidence, the case was simply, that the complainant bought of Gardner nearly the whole of the lot, agreeing to pay, and reserving of the price he was to give, a sufficient amount to pay Gardner's debt.

So far as it appears from the evidence, complainant took into the property in his possession what was to forced to pay the unpaid portion of the debt [illegible] judgment against Gardner, the [illegible] portion agreed to be endorsed of Gardner, whilst the demands that he be allowed to retain the amount he covered to pay the same.

Although the Court may [illegible] in his charge to the jury, that the [illegible] jury in the contract between Smith and Gardner, yet, under the [illegible] the record, the complainant cannot set up the usury, and this charge was error as the jury would have been compelled to render a verdict for the defendant, the judgment should be affirmed.

The Court overruled the motion, to Georgia, Fulton County.

Ashmore, Jr., 24.—Postmaster-General Creswell has tendered his resignation in the following letter:

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24, 1874.

Dear Sir: After [illegible] continuous service, I am constrained by a proper regard for my private interests, to resign the office of Postmaster-General, and to request that I may be relieved from duty as soon as it may be convenient for you to designate my successor. For the generous confidence and support which you have uniformly extended in my efforts to discharge my duty, I shall not attempt to express the full measure of my gratitude. It is sufficient to say, that my relations, official and personal, with yourself and with every one of my colleagues of the Cabinet, have always been of the most agreeable and satisfactory character to me. Rest assured that I shall continue to give my best administration such as most cordial support, and that I shall ever deem it an honor to be permitted to subscribe myself sincerely and faithfully your friend.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24, 1874.

My Dear Sir: As I expressed to you verbally this morning when you tendered your resignation of the office of Postmaster General, it is with the deepest regret that you should have felt such a course necessary. You are the last of the original members of the Cabinet named by me as I entered on my present duties, and it makes me feel as if old associations are being broken up, that I had hoped might have been continued through my official life. In separating officially, I have but two hopes to express: First, That I may get a successor who will be as faithful and efficient in the performance of the duties of the office you resign. Second, That I may get a personal friend that I have the same attachment for. Your record has been satisfactory to me, and I know it will so prove to the country at large.

Yours very truly,
U. S. GRANT.

THE SYRACUSE DISASTER.

Sixteen Persons Killed—One Hundred Maimed.

SYRACUSE, June 24.—The Central Baptist Church disaster proves to have been fully as serious as telegraphed last night. The bodies of fourteen persons killed have been recovered, and further search this morning shows that this is the number of persons killed outright. Several persons were so severely injured that they will probably die.

There were a number of minor casualties—nearly or quite one hundred—among them about a dozen persons with broken limbs and ribs.

The cause of the disaster was a defective construction of the building. The supporting truss was composed of planks spiked together.

The excitement in the community continues very great.

LATER.—Up to one o'clock this evening two additional deaths have occurred.

Several of the injured will be crippled for life.

J. AMBLER SMITH.

Enters into a Street Fight with Pension Agent Washburne.

RICHMOND, June 24.—A street rencounter took place this morning between Hon. J. Ambler Smith and Mr. Andrew Washburne, Pension Agent. The latter accosted Smith, and charged him with making false statements about him. Smith resented by striking Washburne over the head with an umbrella. The two then clinched and scuffled until separated. No serious damage was done. Washburne's charge of false statements probably arose from the statements made by Smith in the House of Representatives a few days ago in regard to the granite contract for a new State Department, in which he was charged with defrauding the government out of sixty thousand dollars.

TURK AND GHEBIR.

An Oriental War Probable.

LONDON, June 24.—The relations between Turkey and Persia are not friendly. It appears that the Persian government has refused to compel the return to the Turkish Territory of a tribe numbering twenty thousand families, which has been subject to the Porte, but escaped across the Persian frontier, and that a number of Turks have been seized and maltreated by a band of Persian pilgrims.

The Turkish government threatens to force Persia to give up the persons who have abused its subjects and to surrender the revolting tribe.

Unless accommodations are speedily effected the relations of the two countries will become critical.

A Pilot Suit.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The general term of the Court of Common Pleas today affirmed the judgment of Judge Quinn in the case of the Sandy Hook pilots vs. several ship owners, which was brought to recover outside pilotage. In the first Judicial District Court Judge Quinn gave judgment for the pilots and the higher court affirmed it as stated.

The Turf.

LONDON, June 24.—At the summer meeting at Newcastle-on-Tyne to-day, the Northumberland plate was won by Silly Agnes; Louise was second; Oraton third. There were twelve starters. The last betting was seven to four against Silly Agnes; five to one against Louise, and twenty to one against Oraton.

President Bradshaw then introduced Rev. G. A. Nunnally, of Monroe, who spoke to address the Literary Societies. His theme was "The Rich Man and How to Win Him." He spoke of the great power of gold; how it influences man in every stage of civilization, and how it has become the grand consideration in matrimonial negotiations. He advised the young ladies to marry no man who is not rich. Without riches, matrimonial bliss is an ideal existence. He then defined what a rich man was. Not he who numbered his millions and is the lord of vast estates, but he who is rich in all that is noble and grand in man. He who possesses a pure, exalted character is the true rich man. Soul-wealth is the coinage of the heart.

The grand object of woman's existence is to assist in building up this character and make man rich in this noblest of treasures. Woman's highest ambition should be to become "somebody's darling." His lament for those unfortunate creatures who disappoint the object of their creation by becoming old maids was very touching. His chivalry prevented his giving full expression to his feelings while speaking of the fair sex; but when he spoke of old bachelors he was truly terrible. He made an aged, unmarried man appear the most insignificant creature on the globe. He truly handled old bachelors with gloves off; his satire was so unmerciful and his ridicule so cutting, that your reporter became almost overwhelmed with a sense of his guilt, and casting his eyes upon the fair ranks before him, involuntarily exclaimed, "O, wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me?" The speaker showed how beautifully the deficiencies of either sex were supplied by the excellencies of the other. When united together, they form one being, beautiful, symmetrical and almost perfect. If they remain always apart these deficiencies are never supplied. Man's heart is woman's resting place.

In conclusion, Mr. Nunnally addressed the societies more particularly. He exhorted them to look at matrimony in its true light, and to choose the really rich man, him who is rich in noble sentiments and manly qualities. All he asked was for them to be women. "Be true to thyself," he said, "and as surely as the night follows the day, to none will thou be false." "Let all thou almost at be thy God's, thy home's and truth's," and when thou fallest as fall thou shalt, thou shalt have the banner of truth for thy winding sheet and the power of God shall resurrect thee to a glorious immortality." Thus closed one of the best addresses to which we have listened for many days. Mr. Nunnally has the oratorical power. He regards none of the modern rules of declamation, and we honor him for it. His style is clear, terse and forcible. Some of his figures were really extraordinary. His diction has about it a boldness and independence which, at the present time, is as admirable as it is rare. The method and unity of his address might be improved, but, on the whole, it is one of the most enjoyable productions we heard for a long time—a true literary treat.

HANNIBAL.

State Agricultural Convention.

The fall convention of the State Agricultural Society will be held in the town of Stone Mountain, beginning on Tuesday, the 11th day of August, 1874, and continuing three days at least. All delegates, officers and life-members, as heretofore, will be passed by the railroads to and from the meeting free. By constitutional provision, the delegates elected by county societies and clubs at the beginning of the year for the spring or February Convention, are also the delegates for the fall or August convention, therefore, the delegates, returned for the convention last February in Columbus, are the delegates at present reported for the Stone Mountain Convention. Societies which did not report for the Columbus Convention, and wishing to be represented at Stone Mountain, must have their returns of delegates reach the Secretary's office by Friday, 10th of July, as on the following day (the 11th) the tickets will be sent from that office to several railroad offices to be there signed by the Superintendents and mailed. The 10th of July will give all societies ample time to report, as all meeting on other days than the first Saturday, can have an opportunity during the present month to elect their delegates, and those meeting on the first Saturday, can hold a meeting on the first Saturday in July, (4th day) and the 10th will be sufficient time for their returns to reach the Secretary's office by ordinary process of mail.

Just twenty-eight years ago this summer, the Georgia State Agricultural Society (then called the "Southern Central Agricultural Society") was ushered into existence at the town of Stone Mountain. There, under a large tree, a little band of sixty-one patriots inaugurated this movement, and to-day, after more than a quarter of a century, it has grown to such proportions in numbers and usefulness till it embraces within its scope [illegible] mountains to the seaboard, and is yet extending its lines of influence and usefulness. In view of this fact, the approaching meeting will have a most interesting significance. Let us then have a large and enthusiastic meeting. Let all the county and neighborhood agricultural societies and clubs—the offspring of this grand old parent, the State society—send up full and able representatives. Of late, many of the subordinate societies have been in a languishing and declining condition, and now is an appropriate time for them to reorganize, remodel, enter the lists again, and join in the work of agricultural progress.

We should like to see present on this occasion all of the original members of the society who are still living—such as Hon. Thomas Stocks, of Greene; Hon. Mark A. Cooper, of Bartow; Col. David W. Lewis, formerly of Hancock; John S. Thomas, of Baldwin, and others whose names we do not now recall.

Proceedings of Council.

Council met pursuant to adjournment in the Recorder's Court Room. Present—Hon. S. B. Spencer, Mayor; and Aldermen Goodwin, Haas, Keely, Young, Kelly, Goldsmith, Simmons, McDuffie and McMillan.

The following appeal cases were taken up: W. H. Pott was fined by the Recorder $10 and costs for failing to abate a nuisance after being notified, and appealed. The case was non-suited.

James Parker was fined by the Recorder $1 and costs for keeping a butcher pen in the city limits without permission of Council, and appealed. He pleaded guilty and made an exculpatory statement. On motion the fine and cost were remitted.

Henry Karwisch was fined by the Recorder $10 and costs for keeping open doors after hours as a dealer in liquors, cigars, etc., and appealed. On motion he was found not guilty and the fine and costs remitted.

Solomon Humphries (col.) was fined by the Recorder $10 and costs for dancing without license and appealed. He pleaded guilty but made an exculpatory statement. On motion the fine was remitted.

The appeal case of F. Corrs was continued until Friday next.

The appeal case of G. J. Anderson was dismissed.

On motion, the Council adjourned.

Supreme Court.

After delivering decisions in cases heretofore argued, the Court adjourned to the next regular term. It will be observed by an order to-day published, that the next term will be reconvened to the second Monday in August next.

Macon Female College—Seventeen Graduates—Interesting Exercises.

We [illegible] the carefully prepared report of Mr. Sturm, which speaks for itself:

Editors Macon Star:

GENTLEMEN: In a recent card published in this city, I requested that I might be spared further publicity of my past unhappy life. This request has not been granted. The Macon Journal & Messenger of the 19th inst. undertook to drag me before the public and abuse, thereby forcing me against my will to appear in public print—a thing most distasteful to me.

Two publications have recently appeared assailing me in the most vindictive and unprovoked manner. The first [illegible] appeared in the Evening Star of this city, in which statements were made base and false, all of which I assured yourselves before publication. You, however, disregarded my statement to satisfy the taste of scandal mongers. In this publication the editor of the Rome Courier has seen fit to add sundry vituperations and slanderous remarks of his own. The other, written by some Macon correspondent of the Louisville Courier, and republished in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, purporting to be the result of an interview with one Mrs. Kemper whilst recently in this city, alluding with the grossest injustice to that which will be shown up in its proper light in due time.

I will state with reference to the publication [illegible] based on the editor says) upon the statements of a gentleman well known in Georgia as a man of the utmost veracity, that in answer to a demand made by me of the editor for the name of his author, Mr. Willingham gave me the names of Capt. B. H. True, of New York, and Charles S. Burt, of Dunleith, Ill. Learning that Mr. True was in this city on the 19th inst., I, with a friend, immediately called on him and demanded his authority for making such base statements to Mr. Willingham. Mr. True promptly denied making the statement on his own responsibility or of his own knowledge. His note to me which I here give, speaks for itself.

MACON, GA., June 19, 1874.

Mr. V. H. Sturm: DEAR SIR—A copy of Mr. Willingham's letter, editor Rome Courier, is before me. In justice to all parties I [illegible] the article which has brought [illegible] correspondence, was incorrect so far as it states that I saw you in Dallas or Shreveport.

I did say to Mr. Willingham that I was in Dallas about the time, and met Mr. Chas. S. Burt, of Dunleith, Ill., who was my informant, and told me the story as I gave it. I know nothing of your private affairs.

Yours truly,
[Signed.] B. H. TRUE,

From this the public can readily see how little credit should be given to said publication. Mr. True's statement virtually narrows Mr. Willingham's authority down to one instead of five "gentlemen of the utmost veracity," as he styles them. I have written to Mr. Burt, demanding his authority of the infamous false statements made and published by Mr. Willingham; and if, as Mr. Willingham asserts, he is a man of "utmost veracity," I am not at a loss to know upon whom this base libel rests.

The letter published in the Courier-Journal, with statements purporting to be made by Mrs. Kemper, abound equally in erroneous statements; and were I disposed to satisfy the prurient tastes of a certain class, I could present abundant proof of the gross injustice of the statements therein made. The sensational statement of little Ella's want of shoes, etc., does not sound well when the fact is known that her mother received from me, through my employers, last January, the sum of $500, which amount was realized from a note given by me, personally, to Butler in view of the note received for that piano sold in Knoxville, (and given at the time it was sold) and of which she made mention in one of her previous "cards." She affirms that the piano was given her by her father, when the truth of the matter is, the old piano given her in 1856 was considered running too common to take into the house where we were boarding in St. Louis, and was sold by me for $85, I supplying its place with a new one, which was some time in 1866, taken in part payment for the piano sold in Knoxville by John Church of Cincinnati, the new one costing $575. There is no necessity of Ella's wanting for anything. She speaks of my love for Ella. This I admit, and shall give strong evidence of at a time not far distant. The threats of Mrs. K. repeated to a friend of mine in this city, to take my life, or have it done, should I attempt to claim Ella, notwithstanding I have, since the beginning of the prosecution of Mrs. K., as well as frequently during pendency of my divorce suit, offered to do a father's part by her. My last offer was made in presence of my attorneys, and I urged Mrs. K. to have her sister appoint some responsible party to receive the money for such purpose; but my offers of kindness have been coldly rejected, Mrs. K. preferring to create a sensation. If any one doubts my statements I will be glad to convince them by producing copies of my letters to Mrs. K. on this subject and her answers.

I reluctantly refer to these matters, and yet I might add enough of similar kind to fill a volume, corroborated by undoubted proof. Especially could I, by the testimony of hundreds, refute Mrs. Kemper's statement that I lived "lovingly and contentedly" with her sister for eighteen years. Every, ever, since our honeymoon, (which was a short one), spent one day in her company that was not made unpleasant in some manner, I do not remember it, Mrs. Kemper adding much to my misery. Mrs. Kemper well knows that her sister and I have several times been parted, twice in Knoxville, and the matter of divorce frequently discussed between us, she once having filed papers of divorce against me.

As to the allusion of the Macon correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal to my connection with the Masonic fraternity, whilst I do not profess to know the faults or opinions of the individual members here, I will simply say that documents in my possession of as late date as the 15th instant, will show that I stand unimpeached in my Chapter and Commandery, I not now being affiliated with a Blue Lodge. It never has been my purpose to force myself upon any one, because I am a Mason. The favors I have asked have been on grounds of supposed friendship, and were the "correspondent" a Mason, he would not make so reckless a statement. His attempt to assail my character in this respect is, as in all others, malicious and uncalled for.

There is a time when patience and forbearance cease to be a virtue. That time has arrived with me.

In conclusion, I would earnestly ask the public to remember three things—that I have not sought publicity of my private affairs; that my antagonists, with one exception, are women, and that there are in this case, as in all others, two sides to a question.

VICTOR H. STURM.

On 'Change.

Vice-President Wyly was called on 'change yesterday. It was announced that telegrams received from New York state that coffee [illegible] per pound.

Quotations for bacon were [illegible] discussion. There is no demand for it from Atlanta millers and it is impossible to affix prices.

The subject of the heavy local freights on the State Road was discussed. The committee on that subject was urged to act.

Dr. Hitchcock wanted the committee to urge the State Road to reduce the freights on produce to Atlanta, and to double it on manufactured articles brought in. If it cost $12 per box for soap and $1,000 per wagon shipped from the West here, it would do us good to know it can be reported from the north star cheaper than it can be made here.

We have discontinued the publication of the Chamber of Commerce reports. All changes reported on 'change will be found in our wholesale price current.

Promotions Worthily Won in the Southern Express Company.

MR. W. W. HURLBERT, long the popular Cashier of the Southern Express Company's Agency at this place, has been transferred to Montgomery, where he will have his headquarters as Route Agent over the lines between that city and Mobile, Ala. and Macon Ga. We are sorry to lose so good a man even temporarily.

Our young friend Mr. Thomas E. Stont, who for several years past, as O. H. and Freight and Receiving Clerk, has served the Company and its customers here with great acceptability, has been promoted to the cashiership, vacated by Mr. W. W. Hurlbert's transfer. The news of this success in the winning promotion by faithful and meritorious services, will, we doubt not, be as gratifying to his numerous friends in Tennessee, of which State he is a native, as it is to his acquaintances in this city.

Weekly Commercial Shrift.

Editors Constitution: By way of a pleasurable and profitable variety, at this dull season, it is deemed a matter of sufficient importance to mention, through your columns, Messrs. Editors, the holding of weekly exhibitions of such horticultural products from the gardens, orchards and fields of our citizens, as they may be able to bring forward. One week or more might be devoted to flowers and plants; then vegetables and fruits; then fruits and farm products. We would give particular attention to grades, or best flowers and pot plants. The ladies of the city would, most assuredly, take an lively interest in such display. Some central hall could be secured at nominal expense, in which such exhibition could be held. Who will second the motion? *

Local and Business Notices.

HOW FEARFUL ARE THE RESULTS OF UNWISE DELAY!—It is no inexcusable breach of confidence when We tell you, reader, that hardly a day passes in which We do not receive such words as these: "Had I known of this 'Opium Antidote' one year ago a precious life might have been saved, but now it is too late, she is gone into eternity."

"My friend Mr. or Mrs. —— died a few days before your medicine was received."

"A friend of mine who had been in the habit of using opiates took an ounce and died."

"It is with a broken heart I write you to-day that the effort of my poor, unfortunate wife to quit opiates by gradual reduction of dose, gave more pain than her shattered nerves could bear, and she is no more."

Now, reader, these are no fancy sketches. Were we permitted, we could give you descriptions of the sufferings of the living that would awake the most earnest sympathetic chords of your nature. It is a suprising spectacle to us to see the want of general interest in and knowledge of the fearfully destructive force of the pernicious soul-and-body-destroying habit of using opiates. Will you not help us make known the merits of an efficient antidote—"Dr. S. B. Collin's Painless Opium Antidote." It will do what is claimed for it; and We truly believe it is the only known efficient "Painless Antidote" for this fearful habit. Write for particulars to

SPECIAL NOTICES.

LET DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC, AND MANDRAKE PILLS. These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American people. They are composed of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution. Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium: It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. june4-deodfm

What if the rose should say to the phlox:
"My form and color are orthodox—
To please your Maker you've got to be,
Precisely in all respects like me."

What if a grape should say to a pear:
"Why are you flaunting about up there?
Beware of swinging alone and free;
You ought to cling to a trellis like me."

What if a river should say to a rill:
"If you weren't too lazy you'd turn a mill;
Study my method, and try to be,
A rushing, roaring river like me."

What if a goose should teach a wren!
Or an eagle try to follow a hen!
What if the monkeys should all agree,
That there ought to be uniformity!

What if a man should say to another:
"Differ with me and prove not my brother;
I have the truth as the oracles tell;
Go with me or you'll go to hell!"

DR. CALHOUN'S LIVER PILLS.

I AM engaged in the manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last 35 years, and has taken precedence over all other Family preparations by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supercede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incidental to this climate. With but few exceptions they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from druggists, merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yield readily to this preparation.

For sale by all druggists.
Price 50 cents a box.
None genuine unless it bears the signature of N. C. Williams and picture of Dr. Calhoun. Address N. C. WILLIAMS,
